DEDICATION

"PROF. ED."

To one who has inspired our respect, our admiration, and our love, during his half-century of service to Earlham, we, the class of nineteen thirty-one, reverently dedicate this book.

FOREWORD

As joy is forever associated with memories of life at Earlham, so beauty is forever linked with joy. We have tried, within the covers of this book, to express the old-world refinement and beauty which make themselves felt even in the midst of this mechanistic, material and sophisticated age.

Message from the President

I AM told that the central theme of the 1931 SARGASSO is the theme of the era of the Renaissance; that is, the preservation of the beauty and the refinement, the virtues and the victories of the past, linking them on to the multiplied blessings which a strenuous and oncoming future holds in store. Surely no ideal could be more fitting for Earlham. True progress in education, like true progress in everything else, begins with the realization of the accomplishments of the past and consists in a gradual and evolutionary process by which the good of the past is transformed into the greater good of the future. The literature of every race and language is rich with expressions of this great fundamental of progress and of common sense.

*"Build thee more stately mansions, O my soul,
As the swift seasons roll!
Leave thy low-vaulted past!
Let each new temple, nobler than the last,
Shut thee from heaven with a dome more vast,
Till thou at length art free,
Leaving thine outgrown shell by life's unresting sea!"*

Message from the Dean

VALUABLE among the possessions of Earlham College are its traditions. The SARGASSO can, and does, foster among us of the present generation an appreciation of the best of these, while inciting us to build into the Earlham of the present day, qualities worthy of its honorable history.

“With reverent regard for convention let us always keep the windows of our souls open to the future.”

Dr. Allen D. Hole

ON APRIL 15 the faculty of Earlham College honored one of its oldest members for long and untiring service by presenting to Dr. Hole a token of appreciation. In view of this fact, the class of 1931 takes this opportunity to extend its heartiest congratulations and deepest appreciation to one of its best loved professors.

Professor Hole received his Bachelor of Science degree at Earlham in 1897, his Master's degree from the University of Chicago in 1901, and his Doctor's from the same university in 1910. He first came to Earlham as a faculty member in 1900 and has remained here since that time.

*"You to the left and I to the right,
For the ways of men must sever—
And it well may be for a day and night,
And it well may be forever.
But whether we meet or whether we part
(For our ways are past our knowing),
A pledge from the heart to its fellow heart
On the ways we all are going!
Here's luck!
For we know not where we are going."*

IN THE beginning, September, 1928, we created the class of '32. And the campus had been a place dull and void; and benighted were those who had moved upon the grass of the campus and along the serpentine. But at first the class was without dignity and very dumb; and innocence was upon the faces of the Freshmen. But the Spirit of Earlham moved among the children.

And President Parsons said, "Let there be great accomplishments;" and there were great accomplishments. And the faculty recognized the ability, and saw that it was unusual. Therefore, in their minds, they separated this new class from the ordinary classes which had gone before. And they called this new class the hope of Earlham. The green caps marked the first year.

President Kirkpatrick said, "Let there be leadership in the midst of the Sophomores, and let it distinguish them from previous classes." And we made the class prominent by excelling in athletics, music, dramatics, and social events. The faculty called the class a blessing.

President Taylor said, "Let us stand together as one man and accomplish even greater things. Let our leadership and influence be even more evident." And this leadership and influence was recognized even unto the members of other classes. They saw that the class of "'32" was good.

The authorities said, "Now Earlham will be on the map. The fruits of its educational endeavors will be abundant. Its influence will exceed our fondest hopes." And it was so. Earlham is prominent on the map. The fruits of its educational endeavors are recognized, and much sought after. Its influence is exceeding all hopes. And everyone sees that it is good.

THE CLASS of 1933 is justly proud of itself. From the moment of its arrival upon the campus, it has been a real force in college life. The class has a fine record in scholarship, maintaining a high scholastic average generally, and boasting some outstanding students in college affairs. Nor is the class of 1933 deficient along athletic lines. To football, basketball, track, and tennis teams at Earlham, it has contributed its quota of players, bringing vim, and punch and stamina to the sports.

For two years the class has carried off the honors in all oratorical events, and members of the class have represented Earlham in the state contests. Half of the membership of the Varsity debating team is drawn from the Sophomore class.

On those many occasions of a more informal and boisterous nature which perhaps test as much as anything the spirit of a class, the Sophomores have always been both enthusiastic and successful. What is yet more important, the class gets along well with itself. There is very little dissension among the members of the class. Maintaining our own personalities, we yet work well together, and every Sophomore is his classmate's friend.

Successful as we are upon the athletic field and in the classroom, we are also strong in Earlham Hall. We proudly boast some of the most charming and popular co-eds upon the campus. Need more be said? The Sophomore class is emphatically upon the college map.

ONE HUNDRED and seventy-five men and women! What a large group of aspiring young geniuses Earlham welcomed as Freshmen last September. We are told that this is the largest class that has been enrolled for many years, and already we must admit they form not the least significant organization on the campus.

One of the significant things about the class of '34 is that they are such a cosmopolitan group. From Asia to Australia, from the Atlantic Ocean to the Pacific Ocean, and from Minnesota to the Gulf of Mexico, come the members of this class.

The class has speedily come to add much to every college activity, whether social, scholastic, dramatic, oratorical, or in the field of debate. And what would our football and basketball games be without the rousing cheers from the "green-cap" section? The class is constantly bringing forth more material, which we know will sometime cause our Alma Mater to be very proud of her youngest class—the class of '34.

In Memoriam

THE GRADUATING class of Nineteen Hundred and Thirty-one wishes to pause here in reverent memory to those members of the student body and faculty, who, during the four years that we have been on campus, have passed beyond to the fuller and greater life:

ORGANIZATIONS

The Day Dodgers

Theodore Kirkpatrick President

Elizabeth Riggs Sec'y-Treas.

Elizabeth Peacock

Social Chairman

THE PART which this organization takes in the college community here forms an integral contribution to its success scholastically, athletically, and socially.

This year they have two social functions to their credit—an elaborately planned and brilliantly executed mid-winter picnic, featuring especially a basketball game on roller skates, and a second party the nature of which has not yet been revealed. In the fall they also materially assisted in the all-College Hallowe'en party.

Athletically, the football team would have been irreparably hampered, had it not been for the able work of Ellis, Powell, Oesting, and Kirkpatrick, while the basketball team is admittedly proud of Shamel and Schneidewind. Then besides the major sports of the college, the Day Dodger men have organized a basketball team of their own.

The annual play, The Dover Road, was another triumph for the organization. Mrs. H. R. Robinson directed the talent to a delightful production of the English comedy.

Perhaps the unusual activity which has marked this year is due to the officers, perhaps to the meritorious interest which Miss Comstock has displayed and which challenged a rebuttal on the part of the students. To whatever cause it may be attributed, the year 1930-31 will certainly be remembered as one of the more outstanding in the annals of the organization.

THE STUDENT SENATE is a representative organization of the entire student body. It is composed of fifteen members and three ex-officio members, who serve as officers of the organization. The president of Bundy Hall Student Council serves as president of the Student Senate, the president of the Earlham Hall Council serves as secretary and treasurer, and the president of the Day Dodgers serves as vice-president. Bundy Hall, Earlham Hall and the Day Dodgers, each elect five representatives to this body.

The regular activities and duties of the Senate are: to arrange student chapel programs, college social functions, and to cooperate with the faculty committee on matters of student welfare. Aside from its regular duties the Senate acts officially for the student body by sponsoring plans and projects for the general welfare of the students and the college community.

One of the most noteworthy achievements of the Senate this year was the organization and fostering of an Earlham Beautification Club of which all friends and students of the college may become members.

IN ALL groups of society there have always been some governing bodies to see that life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness are duly and freely administered to, and shared by, every constituent. Whether the governing body deals out justice, strives for the prevention of crime, or the reformation of the criminal, it seeks as a whole to maintain a satisfied, a contented, and well-mannered group of people. Such has been the policy of the Bundy Hall Student Council in the administration of its constitution and established rules and regulations. The Council has refrained from being a police power but has stayed in the background using its power when necessary for the welfare of the men of dormitory residence.

Many difficult and diverse problems have arisen due to the great number of men in the dormitory. The Council has met these with a high degree of cooperation both from the students and faculty, and has completed one of its most successful years.

THE UNDERLYING aim of the association is to promote a cooperative atmosphere among the girls, and to make the dormitory a friendly community in which to live.

Under the new constitution which was adopted early in the fall, the Day Dodger women are included in the organization as associate members. It is one of the chief aims of the association to form a closer contact between the dormitory girls and the girls not living in Earlham Hall.

The Earlham Hall Association is a member of the Intercollegiate Association for Student Government, and each year the newly elected president is sent as delegate to the national and sectional conventions.

IN THE realm of literary societies, Ye Anglican stands out as chief, since it is of an honorary nature with membership limited to twenty upperclass students. Admittance is based upon creative work done by students, and this display of literary talent and interest has been used in the past year in the form of original programs formed entirely from individual productions of Anglican members.

The society attempts to concentrate in tangible form the standards of composition for the group as individual writers, and to include at the same time an appreciation of all good literature. At the same time, social aspects have not been omitted. Programs and parties are held in various faculty homes, and the newly instigated annual Anglican banquet is a noteworthy campus event.

THE WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION, of which every woman student is a member, is governed by the W. A. A. Executive Board composed of Miss Comstock, the officers, and sport managers of the Association.

Though hockey, basketball, track, and baseball are the major sports, the individual sports of golf, tennis, archery, hiking, and horseback riding, are emphasized because they may be carried on by students after they leave the college campus.

The W. A. A. attempts to make a social as well as a physical contribution to Earlham, and the purchase of a radio for the Association Room and the staging of a Country Sweetheart Party in the Women's Gym on Valentine's Day have joined the annual spring banquet in carrying out this phase.

Twenty girls represented Earlham this spring at a play day sponsored by the University of Cincinnati in which twelve colleges and universities participated. The play day was the largest ever held in the Athletic Conference of American College Women, of which Earlham is a member.

THE CLUB ESPANOL unites those whose interest in Spanish reaches beyond the realm of the classroom. In the monthly meetings it acquaints its members with the customs of our Spanish speaking neighbors, and with the opportunities which are open to students of Spanish by bringing to the campus people who are engaged in work in these countries. Any student of Spanish is eligible to join the club.

Since it is impossible to spend an evening in colorful old Mexico, South America, Spain or the West Indies, the club attempts to bring its members some of the charm of these countries by holding a Spanish dinner each year at which time typical food is served.

Under the auspices of the American Association of Teachers of Spanish, a bronze medal has been awarded each year to a senior for excellency in Spanish.

PHOENIX Literary Society of 1930-31 has a membership of eighty, which is a great increase over previous years. This large enrollment has created a new spirit in the society and has been a source of many new and varied interests.

Phoenix Band has spent the first semester in traveling to other parts of the world. The voyage started from New York City, and included the countries of Africa, Spain, and Germany. The travelers did not forget Christmas and celebrated it with an American Christmas party.

Parents' Day is sponsored by Phoenix and Ionian. At this time the parents of the Earlham students are entertained. The annual donation of books to the library was made, and each month a committee places books of general interest before the student body; thus students are guided in their search for good and popular books of the day.

IN THE seventy-fourth year of its existence, Ionian is the outstanding men's organization on the campus. Its chief claim to fame beyond the campus is that it is the oldest society of its kind in the state.

Ionian serves a three-fold purpose for Earlhmites: its sponsors athletic, social, and forensic events.

The annual cross country run sponsored by this society was won this year by Wayne Hollett; second place, Orville Snyder; third place, Charles Swallow.

Ionian contributes toward the social aspect by giving an all-college spring dance and an annual membership formal banquet. It combines with Phoenix to carry out a yearly Parents' Week-end, an event toward which both students and parents look forward.

The organization offers opportunity for budding orators during the course of its meetings, carried on according to parliamentary law. This year a mock trial was featured and attended by an enthusiastic audience.

An Ionian endowment fund makes possible the annual purchase of a number of books for the college library.

THE DEPRESSION of 1929-1930 will long be remembered in the annals of history as the worst one—both economically and financially. Science Club was no exception to the let down, but in 1930 and 1931 it advanced rapidly toward goals set forth at the beginning of the year. Through the cooperation of the faculty, officers, and members of the club it enjoyed a number of educational inspection tours to scientific laboratories and factories in near-by cities. The programs, while not numerous, were participated in only by the students, and were always interesting, in that the speaker gave his own hobby—one that he had worked out in the laboratories of Earlham. Science Club members were known on the campus by the new pin insignia chosen during this year. The club is composed of scientifically alert minds, and to this fact it owes its success during the year 1930-1931.

INTERNATIONAL Relations Forum began as the World Fellowship Committee of the Christian Associations of the campus. From this it grew to be an independent organization which is sponsored by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. The Carnegie organization sends each year a collection of the most recent and authentic books on subjects of international significance to the club. In addition, speakers are sent who are especially well equipped to discuss outstanding features of international relations.

The work of the Forum consists in discussions of current events in international affairs led by students or off-campus speakers who are best able to deal with the subject in hand. The outstanding piece of work of the Forum was that of sending a student to the University of Mexico for the summer session in the summer of 1931. By this means the Forum seeks to play its part in promoting more amicable relations between countries. Forum takes this opportunity to thank the entire college community for the generous and active cooperation which it gave in realizing this project. The work of Mr. DeCou as vice-president of the state organization of international clubs should not be overlooked.

THE Young Women's Christian Association of Earlham declares its purpose to be: "We, the members of the Young Women's Christian Association of Earlham College, unite in the desire to realize full and creative life through a growing knowledge of God. We determine to have a part in making this life possible for all people. In this task we seek to understand Jesus and to follow Him."

Here we are, a varied group of girls representing different walks of life, different points of view. The Y. W. C. A. is a "melting pot", offering various mediums for getting acquainted and for pooling experiences. The program aims, through meetings and appreciation hours, to offer opportunity for the relaxation and fellowship which make for richer lives and happier hearts. Then there is the Association Room, your room, where you may rest, visit, dance or play and sing at your caprice.

Two intriguing possibilities suggest themselves in connection with Y. W. C. A. activities. One, that of finding expression for individual talent or special hobby; the other, that of learning to understand people unlike ourselves, both on the campus and in the world community of which we are all inescapably citizens.

THE Earlham College Y. M. C. A. aims to enrich the men's life on the campus and to make a substantial contribution toward the promotion of Christian idealism. To attain this end the "Y" is maintaining a flexible program, and not following any stereotyped plan of meetings. The "Y" provided its quota of Freshman Week Staff members; sponsored a stag for freshman during Freshman Week; provided social events for student and faculty men; sent a student to the National Student-Faculty Conference in Detroit; brought speakers of vision to the campus; and, in cooperation with the Y. W. C. A., published the handbook for freshmen; planned Sunday evening discussion groups in faculty homes; and in February promoted the Institute of Human Relations.

The Earlhamite

FOUR times each year the Earlham student receives the Earlhamite, a little magazine of campus and alumni news edited by the alumni secretary, and scans it more or less perfunctorily in the hope of finding something that he "didn't know before." But with what different eyes he looks upon this same little magazine when no longer a member of the college community, perhaps hundreds of miles away, with few or no Earlhamites to gossip with and no weekly Quill to keep him posted. The Earlhamite comes like a messenger from home, and perhaps he may sit down and write to the editor, as did one recently:

"I wish I could make you understand just how rejuvenating and interesting it is to those of us who do not live in the shadows of those dear old 'ivy-covered walls' of Earlham to receive and assimilate the all too few pages of the Earlhamite that occasionally finds its way to our doors."

The Freshman Handbook

THE masterpiece of compact journalism known as the students' handbook of Earlham College is published each year by the two Christian associations of the campus for the particular edification of new students. It outlines in brief form both the history and equipment of the college and the organizations on campus, and serves as a general directory. Probably one of the most valuable contributions which new students receive is bound within the covers of the "Freshman Bible." A copy is mailed to each person during the summer months so that he may have time to acquaint himself with the requirements and advice thus offered, and be able to more easily adjust himself to campus life in the fall.

AN ORGANIZATION which has prospered in the last year is the German club, Gesangverein, sponsored by Professor Charles and the German department.

The club specializes in the singing of German popular and folk songs under the direction of Miss Bachmann. The singing is interspersed with talks concerning the various phases of German music, including such operas as Die Meistersinger. Special music is also presented from time to time by musicians of the school.

The members of the Gesangverein and of the German department presented a medieval nativity play, the "Krippenspiel", in Goddard Auditorium, Sunday, December 14, at Vespers. Dean Charles directed the play, and the music was in charge of Miss Bachmann. The performance was well attended by Earlham students and Richmond citizens.

In January the Gesangverein was admitted into membership in the Interscholastic Federation of German Clubs. This is a national organization which promotes activities of German Clubs.

THE choir has completed a most successful year, continuing the plan adopted last year of combining the two glee clubs into one organization of sixty individually trained voices. Competition for membership is keen, and it is an honor to be in a group which represents the college in as wide a sphere as the choir covers in its varied activities.

This year the choir has been under the able direction of Professor Dail Cox, a graduate of Chicago Musical College and a former student of Herbert Witherspoon, of New York. The choir has been trained in five rehearsals each week, including voice classes, in which each member has received individual instruction. These classes have proved a valuable aid in improving the tone quality of the ensemble.

The activities of the choir have been varied and interesting. Usually singing from the balcony, the clubs have contributed to several chapel programs. Especially impressive were such services at Thanksgiving and Christmas. The first appearance of the choir on the stage in Goddard auditorium was at a Thanksgiving vesper service. Many of the choir members were also in the chorus which presented Handel's Messiah, on December 16. Music lovers of Richmond also sang in this production, which was considered one of the most significant musical events of the year.

During the spring months the glee clubs presented concerts in several cities of Indiana and Ohio. Because of the financial condition of the country and the need for college publicity in the middle west, the clubs decided not to undertake an eastern trip until 1932. The week-end trip taken in March included concerts at Spiceland, Greenfield, and Indianapolis. The members of the choir were entertained over night in homes of Spiceland Friends. On this trip the clubs broadcasted a program over WFBM in Indianapolis at the request of that station.

On a trip in April, concerts were given in Dublin, Plainfield, and Indianapolis. This trip included programs given before the student body of two Indianapolis high schools. The clubs also presented concerts in Winchester, Muncie, Eaton, and Dayton, besides Sunday evening programs in the two Friends churches of Richmond.

An interesting project undertaken by the clubs was the presentation of the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, The Pirates of Penzance. This was given under the auspices of the Earlham Auxiliary of Richmond for the Institute of Polity held at Earlham in May.

The program of the clubs included sacred and secular choral numbers, vocal and instrumental solos, and Negro spirituals sung by the male quartet. The solosists were: Helen Thomas and Hilda Haskett, sopranos; Robert Taylor, tenor; Elmer Varnell and Theodore Kirkpatrick, basses; and Mildred Thomas, violinist. The members of the quartet were Robert Taylor, first tenor; Russell Carter, second tenor; John Metcalf, baritone, and Theodore Kirkpatrick, bass. Mildred Fox and Margaret Harold were accompanists with the clubs.

The Orchestra

ONE of the outstanding features of this year's program was the participation of the Orchestra in Handel's Messiah, presented by the college choir and the Richmond church choirs in combination. Another event of interest was the appearance of the group on the program of the Costume Ball given by the Earlham Women's Auxiliary at the Richmond-Leland Hotel. For various dramatic arts productions the orchestra played between the acts of the play being staged. The final big number of the year was the operetta, "The Pirates of Penzance," by Gilbert Sullivan, presented by the Earlham Choir and assisted by the Earlham orchestra.

Mask and Mantle

THIS year Mask and Mantle celebrated its tenth anniversary. It seems at times that "all the world is a stage," but no true member of Mask and Mantle is ever completely happy if there is no play in the present or near future for which to plan and work. This season the club has presented Cock Robin, Drinkwater's $X=O$, and a number of one-act plays, including Aria da Capo, by Susan Glaspell.

In addition to Mask and Mantle, Earlham is fortunate in possessing a chapter of the National Collegiate Players. It is the smallest college among the twenty-seven colleges and universities granted chapters. Pi Epsilon Delta is the highest dramatic honor a student may attain, so it is no wonder that members are proud to display their little gold Greek-letter keys.

A scene from "Cock Robin"

The Earlham Dramatic Season

IT HAS been said that Dramatic Art is the noblest of all the arts, because it stands in most intimate relations with daily lives of people. All art is an expression of beauty. Dramatic Art is the reflection of life. Earlham has stood firm in this belief and has added each year to the excellent and enviable reputation that she has been building up in this field of Dramatic Art throughout the many years of her existence.

Plays hold a universal appeal; audience and actors alike may doff the cares and tumult of everyday reality and don the magic cloak of the mystic land of "Make Believe", where everything combines to make them forget what did or did not happen to them today.

As a start-off, Mask and Mantle played Cock Robin, from the pen of Elmer Rice and Philip Barry. The solution of a murder committed in the play within the play afforded the audience an enthralled evening, and the cast a good two hours of suspense and tension. Next on the program appeared an evening of three one-acts presented by the class in beginning Dramatic Arts, and directed by students from the advanced Dramatic Arts class. The "hit" of this evening was The Under Dog, by Hall and Middlemass, portraying the efforts of a crook to go straight, and his ultimate death at the hands of former associates. The other two plays, Paul Green's No 'Count Boy and George Kelley's Flattering Word, gave the lighter touch to the evening, and were received with much enthusiasm.

From "Children of the Moon"

Mask and Mantle this year initiated a new plan of holding occasional open meetings and producing at those meetings plays made up of non-club members who were aspirants to membership, each directed by a Senior member of the club. The first of these, Edna St. Vincent Millay's delightful fantasy, Aria da Capo, played well to a curious audience, and it in turn was followed by Susan Glaspell's Trifles and Lady Gregory's Spreading the News. Mask and Mantle members feel that they have discovered some remarkable talent in the college group, and that their plan has proved a decided success. As another side issue, two small casts have played one-acts on the road, one holding forth for at least nine performances—and advertising the college in general.

These two were Rosalie, a comedy translated from the French by Barrett H. Clark, and Red Carnations.

The next evening allotted to dramatics on the Earlham calendar was the Day Dodgers' presentation, The Dover Road, that clever satire by A. A. Milne. This is the story of two young couples who are eloping to the Continent by way of the Dover Road, and how they spend three days as the forced guests of a dear old meddler interested in the affairs of all young married folk, and leave to go their separate ways. The Dramatic Arts Class again forged to the front, this time with a three-act production from the pen of Edna Ferber and George Kaufman, Minick. It was a highly amusing comedy of a poor old father seeking to find a little peace and understanding in the city apartment of his married son and daughter-in-law, and his necessary departure for an Old Men's Home.

Mask and Mantle presented a record performance of Martin Flavin's Children of the Moon, the play which develops the tragic life of a young girl brought up in a family tainted with moon madness. It shows how she finds her life and her love thwarted because of her infirmity, and how she finally embarks with her lover on a hopeless flight to the moon, knowing she will never return. This made a poignant and moving drama.

The Seniors closed the highly successful dramatic season with The Truth About Blayds, by A. A. Milne.

NEGATIVE—Pauline Kniese, Captain; Dorothy Bluemel, Elisabeth Peacock.

UNUSUAL interest in the question this year brought forth more aspirants for the team than heretofore, twenty-five in all trying out, from which were selected those deemed as best speakers. That correct judgment in selection was used was displayed by the fact that a one hundred per cent winning team was chosen, thereby setting an unprecedented example on the campus.

The question—Resolved: That collegiate social fraternities should be abolished—proved to be one of vital interest, for crowds were in attendance where the debates were held.

On Thursday, February nineteenth, at New Castle, our negative team defeated the affirmative team from Ball State Teachers' College of Muncie, while our affirmative won from Ball State's negative at Winchester High School. Saturday, February twenty-first, a dual debate with Taylor University (its negative meeting our affirmative here, and our negative meeting its affirmative at Upland), was judged in our favor. Thursday, February twenty-sixth, Earlham again emerged victorious in a dual contest with Indiana Central, our negative remaining at home while our affirmative and its negative met at Indianapolis.

Men's Intercollegiate Debates

AFFIRMATIVE—Floyd Gardner, Captain; Tom Millikan, Robert Parsons.

NEGATIVE—Wayne Hollett, Captain; David Dennis, Wilbur Gray.
Samuel DeCou, Alternate.

THE question chosen by the Indiana Association of Colleges for the debating season was: "Resolved, that upon the declaration of war with another nation, our government should use only conscripted wealth for all expenditures involved in the war."

Interest and competition was outstandingly great upon the varsity debating team. In addition to the incentive of earning membership in the honorary forensic fraternity established on the campus, love for the art of debating urged men to try out for the team. As a consequence twenty-six men worked hard in the preliminary try-outs, the eight men listed above being the survivors.

A very successful season was brought to a close by these men. The affirmative team debated Wabash, Indiana Central and Terre Haute Normal. The negative team debated DePauw, Indiana Central, and Ball Teachers' College of Muncie.

Earlham Old Line Oratorical Contest

ORVILLE JOHNSON, class of 1933, won the annual Earlham Old Line Oratorical contest, thus gaining the right to represent the college in the State contest held at Wabash. First place was won by a Wabash man in that contest, but Mr. Johnson capably represented Earlham and gained valuable experience for future contests.

The home contest caused a great amount of interest this year, and the judges for the event, selected by the speakers themselves, had a difficult task in deciding upon the winner. The prize-winning oration dealt with lynchings in Indiana, and had as its title, "The Blot on the Escutcheon." Leonard Kenworthy, '33, won second place, and Floyd Gardner, '31, received third place. The other speakers were Richard Plummer, '31, and Mabel Edgerton, '34.

The Extempore Contest

EARLHAM has always had a characteristic interest in forensic activities, one of which is an extempore contest held at the close of each semester. Keen interest and close competition featured the contest at the close of the first semester of this year. From a field of more than thirty aspirants, five were selected for the final contest held in chapel. As is customary each of the five speakers was given a subject a few hours before he was to speak in chapel. Thomas Millikan, '33, speaking on the subject, "The Senate and the World Court," was awarded first place; Robert Parsons, '32, was a close second, his subject being "Branch Banking." The other speakers were Floyd Gardner, '31; Samuel DeCou, '32, and Elmer Varnell, '32.

Peace Contest

THE HOME PEACE CONTEST was held in Goddard Auditorium at Earlham on Monday evening, April 20. The college was represented by six speakers.

Elizabeth Peacock, '33, by winning first place, won the honor of representing Earlham in the State Contest at Indiana Central on May 1.

Miss Peacock, speaking on the subject, "Our Task," held her audience by the vivid picture she drew of war, and of the responsibility that rests upon men to outlaw it. She presented the picture of war as we usually see it; of bright uniforms, bands, songs, and good times. Then she presented war as it really is; the price in lives, money, devastation, and the effects of it upon the minds of men. Her final plea was that we realize our task in making war criminal, in making it outlawed from the earth.

The other contestants in the home contest were: Robert Parsons, '32, who placed second; Leonard Kenworthy, '33; Donald McKinney, '32; Joseph Ellis, '32, and Eugene Maze, '33.

Freshman Debates

AFFIRMATIVE—Alfred Cope, Captain; Howard Bartram, Doyle Nicely.

NEGATIVE—Frank Kennedy, Captain; Robert Barrett, Paul Ingels.

THE Earlham Freshman debaters engaged in debates with first year men from Miami and Wittenberg, debating the question: "Resolved, That the chain store is a detriment to the public welfare." This question provided much interest, and the two teams were chosen from the large group that tried out.

In the first debate the affirmative met the Miami negative on February 18th, at Earlham. The negative journeyed to Miami on February 25 to meet their affirmative in a lively debate. With the Miami debate past, the teams prepared for Wittenberg on March 17th. The affirmative traveled there and the negative debated at home.

All of the debates were no decision debates, but with Prof. Ed. coaching, the men were largely successful in gaining an interest and experience which they might not otherwise have, and which it is hoped should be of assistance in future varsity work.

Tau Kappa Alpha

William B. Colley President
Rebecca R. Smith Secretary-Treasurer

TAU KAPPA ALPHA, Earlham's first national honorary fraternity, has been kept busy this year sponsoring and attending the successful debates of the Men's, Women's and Freshman teams. Since the fraternity diminished in membership by only three due to graduation, the yearly constituency of six active members have made Tau Kappa Alpha a going concern.

Pursuant to such an unusually successful debate season, the increase in new members is quite marked. Active members initiated this spring were: Orville Johnson, Dorothy Bluemel, Pauline Kniese, Elizabeth Peacock, Elmer Varnell, Wilbur Gray, David Dennis, Alison Rush, and Dorothy Jane Riffin.

The honorary members in Earlham's chapter of the national honorary forensic fraternity are Professor Edwin P. Trueblood, Professor Howard C. Morgan, George Batt, '30, and Joseph C. Wagner, who is the debate coach at Hartford City, Indiana.

Trueblood Testimonial Fund

THE interest and position which the Earlham Speech Department has brought to itself through its intercollegiate debating teams has merited and won the recognition not only of men of the immediate community, but also that of one who is especially well qualified to judge such activities, Thomas Clarkson Trueblood, Professor Emeritus of Michigan University.

Professor Trueblood was the head of the department of speech at Michigan, the first of its kind to be established in any college or university in the United States. Also he was the founder of the Northern Oratorical League, the Central Debating League, and the Mid-West Debating League. Thus, the gift doubles its value from the hands of one so experienced and so well versed in the art of declamation.

The endowment which Professor Trueblood has offered Earlham will be known as the Trueblood Debating Testimonial Fund, the provisions of which are as follows:

"Thomas C. Trueblood, A.M. '86, Litt.D. '21, hereby provides a fund of $5,000 which he places in the hands of the Board of Trustees of Earlham College, and designates that the annual interest from this fund, beginning with the college year 1931-32, shall be divided equally among the twelve debaters who represent Earlham College in authorized intercollegiate debates. In case there are fewer than this number of debaters, the amount of $25 for each debater not participating shall remain in a sinking fund, the disposition of which for public speaking testimonials shall rest with a committee of the faculty of which the head of the department of speech shall be chairman."

The gratitude of the college, and particularly of the Department of Speech, cannot be adequately expressed, but we hope the debt may be paid in the satisfaction of recurring successes.

The Coaches

SINCE Nineteen-twenty-five, football on the Earlham Campus has been in charge of M. O. Ross, and during that time he has turned out teams that Earlham has been proud of, without exception. Although the teams might not have been of the best calibre, they have never failed to gain respect nor fight from start to finish on any gridiron. The men who have worked under him respect him for his untiring energy and insistence upon the right thing in any situation. He will long be remembered in the hearts of those with whom he is associated for his inspiring attitude and the principles for which he stands.

As Director of Men's Physical Education and as Basketball Coach we have Blair Gullion. It would be a hard task to find as competent and efficient a man as Gullion to fill the post of Athletic Director, and at the same time turn out the type of basketball teams that have been turned out at Earlham under him. This year the basketball team showed remarkable ability and the track team, under his guidance, was one of the best to be found anywhere. In sponsoring the broad Intramural program that he does, Gullion has gained a place in the hearts of Earlham men that will long be remembered. During the football season he assisted Coach Ross and acted as scout.

This season we were able to have Walter Johnson with us as assistant football coach. Those who played with Walt will remember him as a fine fellow and good sport, and those who became acquainted with him for the first time admired him for his persistent efforts and assistance to Coach Ross this season.

Season of 1930-31

WITH seven letter men and twenty-two real husky freshmen on the squad of forty-four men, it seemed as though Earlham might have had a real football season. However, "Old Man Jinx" dogged us in the form of injuries, ineligible and inexperience, all of which combined, served to defeat us. The team was well enough coached to have won all the games, but circumstances rather played against us. If the season was not a success from the standpoint of score, it was most assuredly a success from the standpoint of experienced material that should return to the Earlham gridiron for the 1931 season.

A summary of the season's scores is as follows:

| | | | |
|---------|----|-----------------|----|
| Earlham | 14 | Bluffton | 0 |
| Earlham | 0 | Rose Poly | 6 |
| Earlham | 6 | DePauw | 27 |
| Earlham | 0 | Franklin | 27 |
| Earlham | 0 | Manchester | 26 |
| Earlham | 7 | Indiana Central | 13 |
| Earlham | 7 | Hanover | 7 |
| Earlham | 0 | Louisville | 13 |

Tom Felix

Tom is a cool field general, and one of the best men Earlham has had. He is a three letter man.

Walter Johnson

Walt has been assistant coach. Thanks, Walt! We appreciate your interest and efforts.

Joseph Ellis

Here we have two outstanding men on the team. And what do you suppose makes them so noticeable? Why, of course, they both have red hair. You can see these auburn banners flying in the middle of any melee and, believe me, they are always there. Right Tackle Ellis is Captain-elect. Don't tell anyone, but he got it through his diplomatic way with the officials. We lose Oesting this year and we surely will miss him at center. Well, good luck, fellow. You always were good on the field or in the laboratory.

Ralph Oesting

Get a good look at these two chaps and you'll see two very efficient reasons why we are going to make a great showing next year. Parker is that little Left Guard that never lets them pass. And when it comes to making a hole, he is there. Ask Ray, but then weigh his opinion because he can slip through the eye of a needle—he's built that way. Ray always gets serious before a game, so it takes friend Parker with his jovial banter—yes, sir! that's the smile now, right in the camera—to brighten him up. Fiercer and more tackles, fellows!

Ray Kastetter

Don Parker

Apollo here, could make that same Greek blush. Just ask any girl and you'll have to stay hours to hear all about him. Aside from having all the looks on his side of the line, he surely is a football man, and we ought to hear from him again next year. When Powell starts tearing down the field you can be sure something is going to happen, for he usually comes through with something good. Left End Kirkpatrick and Left Tackle Powell—what a pair!!

Theodore Kirkpatrick

Here we have one of the best men on the team. He may admit it too, but so do we. You're right, it's none other than our friend

Horace. All joking locked up, he came through with the goods. Looks mad in this picture, but that's just a mask to cover his real disposition that's O.K. Hi, Carl Schneidewind. (Sneeze if you must.) Carl held down the right end this year in a real way. Can he snag those passes? The answer is yes! extra loud. This is his first year out for the sport but he'll bear watching, so don't be surprised if you pick up the paper sometime and think the compositor is trying to be funny—he'll just be trying to give the boy his just reward.

Horace Walker

Carl Schneidewind

Harold Bowers

And now we would like to present for display some of our green material who really got over their greenness about the game and made their letters. Hal Bowers made us a first class backfield man and developed plenty of speed, deception, and clever pass work—all of which are requisites for a player of the first order. This innocent looking fellow on the right played a whale of a good game in the line and proved to be a valuable man. With more experience and a few pounds more of beef he'll be right up in front when the season opens up again. Notice the calm and unperturbed expression on his face. He is so quiet you don't know he is around, but then that's rather useful on the gridiron.

John Gottschalk

Bob Ehrsam

Little "Cupic" Ehrsam, as the fairer sex call him, is one of the bulwarks of defense. He fills the hole known as right guard, and "fill" is exactly the word. He does it to perfection. Now Van, here, is a different proposition. He gave Red Oesting a right smart fight for that center position, and it looks as though he ought to be one of the key men next year. More power to both of you!!

Charles Van Ausdal

Thomas Moore

This serious faced youngster on the left hand side of the page gives you the wrong impression. He is none other than smiling Tommy Moore, the smart young quarterback on whom fell the larger burden of guiding the team this year. He is an all around fellow and when you come here make his acquaintance. His class-mate Ted, came from the East to find fame on the gridiron and in other quarters.

Theodore Kausel

John Alley

John Alley came out the first night and worked hard. He liked it so he stayed and finally his perseverance earned him a position as Guard. Come on, fellow—let's have a big year next year!

Next Season

These men have a real schedule ahead of them next year. Here it is—the schedule with dates and places of playing:

The Season

IN SPITE of the fact that the team dropped six of the games on the schedule to opponents, we consider the season one of the best in a number of years and a bright spot on the Earlham athletic calendar for this year.

Here is the schedule:

| | | | |
|---------|-----|--------------|----|
| Earlham | 30 | Rose Poly | 19 |
| Earlham | 18 | Miami | 16 |
| Earlham | 26 | Indiana Cen. | 29 |

Barney Overman led the Quaker netmen through this season and proved to be one of the most valuable members of the quintet. He leaves us this year and we will feel his absence in future seasons.

Freshman Shamel surprised us this year and proved he could make a point or two whenever the occasion demanded it. He was good and there was no doubt about it.

About half the size of a boy, Gaar, proved to be as good as two men at times. He has that knack of being elusive on the floor that makes the opponents worry.

And then, of course, there was Newt Johnson, who played "stretch" with someone else at each game. Another freshman, and we can expect a lot of him next year.

Every once in a while "Bill" got in there and dashed around a bit and got everybody excited and then made a few points just to show he could.

There's a joke out about Carl. A certain referee could not pronounce his name fast enough so just called him Shorty, but he's really about six feet tall.

Tom Felix

Tommy played his last season of basketball this fall and we are sorry to lose such a valuable player. Perhaps he'll coach some place and send us a man or two just as Huntsman sent us Tom four years ago.

Eddie proved his worth as a guard and kept his feet under him all the time. Leave it to Ed to spoil a threatening move or a trick formation. And then, ask him about that dribble.

Eugene Maze! Oh yes, they wanted him for a part in "Reaching for the Moon" but he decided that reaching for basketballs was better exercise and the result was an efficient tip-off man who could be depended upon to get it right where it was wanted.

The game took on a different atmosphere whenever Hal took to the floor. Basketball isn't a loafing game, but then Hal had wings on his feet.

Miami 116½ DePauw 62
Earlham 40½

Earlham's 1931 track team was unable to gain better than third place in the triangular meet with Miami and DePauw at Greencastle. Miami led the field with 116½ points, DePauw with 62 points, and Earlham trailed with 40½ points. A summary follows, showing how Earlham placed and also giving a comparison between the marks set in the inter-class meet and those reached at Greencastle. The inter-class meet marks precede the others.

100 yard dash, Peterson, third, :10.05—:9.09. 2 mile, Routh, fourth, 11:03—9:54.2. 220 yard dash, Peterson, fourth, :24.2—:22.2. 120 high hurdles, Kirkpatrick, fifth, :17.8—:16.6. 440 yard dash, Earlham did not place, :55—:49.5. 1-mile, Hollett, third, 5.2—5:31.1. Low hurdles, Oesting, fourth, :28.2—:26. 880 yard run, Hollett, second, 2:8.6—2:4.2. Shot put, Schneidewind, fifth, 35 feet 7 inches—41 feet 7½ inches. Javelin, Felix, second, 166 feet 8 inches—165 feet 4 inches. Discus, Cope, third, 108 feet 11 inches—124 feet 5 inches. High jump, Maze, first, Swallow and Stanton, fifth, 5 feet 11 inches—5 feet 9 inches. Broad jump, Bower, third, Cain, fourth, 19 feet 11 inches—21 feet 10½ inches. Pole vault, Stanton tied for first, 10 feet—12 feet. Relay, Earlham third.

The Earlham track men walked off with fourth place at the Little State track meet held at Muncie, May 11th. Butler took first place, piling up a score of 75 points which put them far in front of Ball State who came second with 28½ points. DePauw placed third with 28 points.

Bunny Burns, Butler dash star, lowered the 220 yard dash record by running the distance in 21.3. The old record of 21.4 was made by Conrad of Earlham 20 years ago.

Bill Stanton, with a first in the pole vault, and Tom Felix, with a first in the javelin, took the only first places scored by Earlham. Maze secured a third in the high jump, and Oesting came in third in the mile run. Cain placed fourth in the broad jump, and Hollett took third in the half mile event. Schneidewind took second honors in the javelin throw, and Peterson placed fourth in the 220 yard dash. Snyder placed fourth in the 2 mile event, and Cope took a third in the discus throw.

ANY athlete making a letter in any sport is eligible for membership in the "E" Club. The club was reorganized this year with the purpose of making it one of the most active of campus organizations. The desire to maintain a high level for athletics and sports on the Earlham campus has been the guiding principal of these men.

| Tom Felix..... | Football, Basketball, Track |
| Ralph Oesting | Football and Track |
| George Hull..... | Football and Track |
| William Cain..... | Football, Basketball and Track |

THE Double "E" Club has not fostered a very extensive program this semester, due probably to small membership and lack of letter men to choose from. However, as the track season draws to a close, Bowers is almost through his set of tricks, and we have as possible candidates for membership: Tommy Moore, who starred in football last fall and who made a letter in track, G. Maze of basketball and track fame, and C. Schneidewind, who also courted the "hardwood" and the "cinder path" as well as the gridiron.

Double "E" stands for and well represents the highest achievement in sports. Fostering sportsmanship and athletic attainment on an equal basis, it is the most coveted of organizations for the athletically inclined.

Stanley, Outland, Lindley, Carter, Johnson

Tennis

WITH three veterans around which to build an efficient winning machine, the prospects looked bright for the year 1931. Lloyd Outland captained the team, and we congratulate Mr. Outland both on his ability and guidance of the team.

The five men selected to represent Earlham this year were: Outland and Lindley, alternating as first and second man; P. Stanley, O. Johnson, and J. Carter.

Earlham dropped its first match to Antioch, 5 to 2. Carter and Johnson were the only ones to come through victorious in the singles. Both doubles matches were lost. However, the following week the team traveled to DePauw and emerged from the courts victorious to the tune of 4 to 3. Lindley, Stanley, and Carter won their singles and the Lindley-Outland combination won in a hard fought doubles battle.

Following this, the boys hit a more desirable stride and turned in two clean sweeps over Ball State and University of Dayton. Everybody rejoiced. The next week we lost to Indiana State Normal 5 to 2, Johnson and Carter again taking their matches.

As we go to press the team has four matches yet to play, Antioch, Indiana State Normal, Ball State, and the University of Dayton. The team is anxious to redeem themselves and we hope for victories in these matches.

Intramural Program

THIS year Earlham has had its most extensive intramural program. A new system of competition was inaugurated, giving everyone who cared to participate an equal chance for honors. The fellows were divided into eight groups instead of four classes as previously.

The fall program consisted of tennis singles and doubles matches in which 90 different individuals took part; horseshoe singles and doubles in which 51 individuals took part. There was also a golf tournament in which there were 62 participants.

Later there were intergroup basketball games in which 84 games were played, and there were 99 contestants, the largest number to take part in any one event. For the first time volleyball had a place on the program, and 32 participants availed themselves of the new sport. It might be well to add that the volleyball courts were possible because of the new floor in the Indoor Field.

Seventeen contestants tried and found out how long the Cross-Country course was, and culminated their efforts on Homecoming Day before a huge gathering. The interclass track meet was an event that held to the old class system of competition and, strange as it seems, the Seniors won it.

This spring there have been tennis singles and doubles, and in addition to these, there are mixed tennis doubles and mixed golf matches (two-somes). Baseball has also found a place on the program and bids fair to become one of the more popular intramural sports.

Skating has been enjoyed throughout the year, and there have been several play-nights at which everyone could participate in such games as shuffle-board, shuttle-cock, volleyball, basketball, ping-pong, and eating, if one felt so inclined.

As we go to press there are as yet several unfinished events on the list. They are the Earlham relays, the Earlham decathlon, and the Intergroup track meet. As these are more or less individual events, the competition will be keen and interest high.

As a body we are indebted to Coach Gullion's interest and work in this line. It has been through him that such a line of sports has been inaugurated so that no one is neglected.

Student Manager

UNDOUBTEDLY the hardest job of all connected with athletics is that of student manager. As it usually falls to one man to do all the work, which consists of looking after the personal needs of all the teams and athletes, there is more than enough to keep a strong man busy. If you doubt this in the least, here are a few things that regularly happen to a regularly overworked individual: taking orders from everyone, including a few from the coaches, putting the men (and boys) to bed, nursing them when ill, telling funny stories to make their food taste better, and making sure everything goes smoothly on the trips. No wonder he can't afford to dress up! This is James Moore, folks, who has so diligently served us for the past year, an all-round fellow. If you want to know how he got that way, why, it was with close contact with the athletes.

The Coaches

Mrs. E. H. Robinson

THE W. A. A. holds a high place in the estimation of the college community. The calibre of Earlham girls is in part responsible for this good opinion, but undoubtedly the greatest influence is the high standards of the physical education department.

Miss Clara Comstock, though dean of women, was primarily and still is, head of the physical education department. Her undying interest and enthusiasm in W. A. A. activities give zest to the entire organization. Her ideal is to place every girl in a congenial sport through which the principles of fair play and skill can be firmly established.

Mrs. Francis Robinson and Mrs. Norman Johanning are assistant instructors under Miss Comstock. Both are Earlham graduates and both are members of the E. C. Club, which is an indication that present Earlham students play hockey and basketball under the coaching of Earlham's previous best.

"E" Club

THE point system at Earlham which forms the basis of awards is quite secondary to the wholesome attitude of sport for sport's sake. However, W. A. A. attempts to recognize physical ability and participation in sports and has chosen the point system as the simplest and fairest method.

Class numerals are granted for 500 points made through participation in at least two sports and must include 50 health points. Winners of the "E", pictured above, have accumulated 1,000 points in a range of three or more sports and have kept health rules for 100 points.

Smith, Bell, Evans, Piper

Double "E" Club

FROM the more enthusiastic Earlham co-ed athletes come the Double E group. Experience, ability, and persistence are necessary to accumulate the 2,000 points for this award. Swimming, hiking, archery, and horseback riding join the major sports in importance for the E E winner. Every round of golf and every set of tennis find a place in the point system along with the most thrilling of hockey games. It is these individual sports which women students will be able to enjoy most frequently after college, and Earlham W. A. A. hopes not merely to keep a girl fit and happy while in college but to give her a lifetime interest in athletics.

Barton, Kemper, Thomas, Piper

“E C” Club

SOMEWHERE in the U. S. A. there are thirty-one white blazers trimmed in maroon, bearing the E. C. insignia. For ten years this has been the superlative of W. A. A. awards. A blazer signifies an all-round athletic ability in combination with a spirit of sportsmanship and good character which W. A. A. is proud to acknowledge. No girl wins this award by grinding out an accumulation of points. She must have points, to be sure, but she must also be inoculated with the pleasure of sport.

The winners pictured above have the added achievement of having won blazers in the spring of their Junior years.

Morton, Geist, Gaar

The Riding Club

RIDING CLUB was founded on the trial and error system. The first great problem, creating a desire to ride, in the Earlham co-eds, was followed by the second great problem, i. e., creating something upon which Earlham co-eds might ride. Both of these theoretical hurdles having been surmounted, the one and greatest problem remained, that of teaching Earlham co-eds how to ride. A riding ring was built east of Comstock field in which beginners learn the first principles of horsemanship and where old-timers practice jumping and trick riding.

The real joys of riding, however, are found in the meadows of Clear Creek and the White Water, and along the narrow dirt roads south of Earlham.

An unusually open winter made possible continued riding from September till June.

The Hockey Season

HOCKEY is one more thing which makes Earlham famous. There is a thrill in hockey which is totally different from that of any other sport, and Earlham supplies both the thrill and the sport adequately. In past years, we have played against the All-American and the All-English teams; we have played our class games; we have played against teams of Earlham boys, and we have had English coaches. This year the big event of the season was the arrival of Miss Burr.

Miss Burr, of Sussex, England, coming from the Chicago Hockey Association, coached us for four days. She has played on the South of England Hockey team, she has had wide coaching experience, and has published a book of instructions. We profited by her coaching and enjoyed her visit.

The tournament this year produced much skill in all of the classes. The captains: K. Rhoads, Freshman; D. Wheeler, Sophomore; G. Aspey, Junior; and M. Evans, Senior, coached their teams admirably. The hockey banquet was very entertaining, and the season was a success.

The Hockey Champions

LAST year, as Freshmen, the class of 1933 showed surprising ability. The Juniors played hard that year to gain second place, and the Seniors, although champions in nearly every field, were a little shaken by those Freshmen. This year we are glad to welcome the Sophomores as champions. The Seniors, their opponents most to be feared, were beaten by a score of 4-3.

Dorothy Wheeler captained the Sophomores and coached them. They exhibited teamwork as well as individual skill and an aptness in handling their sticks. While this team was playing, there was a spirit of eagerness, good-will, and strong determination. This is the spirit which Earlham wants everywhere, and a class which will impress future classes with those qualities is indeed deserving of our hockey championship.

The Basketball Season

A COMMANDING whistle, every girl on her toes, a ball spinning above the heads of the players, and the game is on. As hockey is in the limelight of women's athletics in the fall, so basketball is in the focus of attention in the winter. The first three weeks of this season were given over to drill in theory and technique, all of which proved to be of great, direct value in the weeks of practice that followed.

Due to careful instruction, unlimited interest, plenty of ability, and fine sportsmanship, the basketball season was a success. The inter-class tournament was played in the indoor-field with each team driving the invincible Sophomores to victory. The Freshmen played very well for their first year together, and the strength of the other teams is witnessed by the fact that each placed two of its members on the varsity. The only sad thing about the season is that it was far too short.

The Basketball Champions

OFTEN has it been said that the best team always wins. Whether always true, we can not say, but it is positive that the best team won the inter-class basketball tournament this year. The Sophomores really deserve the title which they hold, for each team furnished plenty of competition for them.

First they met the Freshmen, who gave them a good run for victory. Next came the battle with the strong Senior crew. This was truly an exciting game with but a few points of difference between the scores in the entire game. However, the Sophomores led at the final gun. The struggle with the Juniors was not to be termed easy, but again the Sophomores were successful. The persistent Juniors met them a second time in an exhibition game at the Indoor Meet, but were again defeated.

"Mac" and her team are the first class to be placed on the new banner, and they have two more years. Who knows what the future holds?

BASKETBALL CHAMPIONS

Dilks, Gaunt, McWilliam, Hartsuck, Morton, Bluemel

BASKETBALL VARSITY

Swimming

EARLHAM has the distinction of being the only college without a pool of its own to have a Red Cross Life Saving Corps. The Corps this year is composed of Mrs. Norman Johanning, Helen Thomas, Gertrude Vivian, Alison Rush, Caroline Farquhar, Ruth Falkinburg, Margaret S. Jones, and Mary Hires. A number of the Corps are also Red Cross Life Saving Examiners.

The class swimming captains are Miriam Evans, Gertrude Vivian, Mary Morton, and Alison Rush. These girls will lead their respective teams in competing for a silver plaque, which was presented for the first time last year by W. A. A. and won by the class of '32.

Tennis

WITH the indoor courts available for play during damp weather and the outdoor courts in good shape, tennis has proved to be at least among the most popular sports for girls.

This year there was a doubles tournament played in the fall. Many good doubles combinations came to light in this competition, which was marked by much enthusiasm. Gertrude Vivian, the holder of the singles championship for '30, paired with Herberta Bell, the holder of the same title in '29, came through the play without defeat.

The spring singles tournament is played off during the month of May. The entrants play for first and second position within their own class. There follows inter-class play, the winner of which competes with Miss Vivian, who defends her title.

With tournament play in the fall and spring and indoor practice during the winter, a better brand of tennis is showing itself on the Earlham tennis courts among the fair sex.

Archery

ARCHERY is still a very popular sport in the field of women's athletics at Earlham. The stimulating spirit of competition and the keen interest shown on the archery range promise a splendid spring tournament.

There are three good reasons why the sport is popular: First, there is good archery equipment; this year arrangements were made for indoor practice during bad weather. In the second place the archery range is one of the loveliest spots on the campus—a perfect setting for a perfect sport. Then, too, archery is in itself a challenge. It calls for skill, a keen eye, a steady arm, and good form.

Miss Comstock is now planning to enter an archery team in the Annual Women's Intercollegiate Archery Tournament by telegraphy. The tournament is to be shot on the home range May 24 and the results wired to Wisconsin University Archery Club. Appropriate awards will be given individual team members.

Outing Club

THE managership formerly designated as Hiking was this year changed to Outing and includes the camping enthusiasts as well as the mileage-makers.

An abnormally open winter made possible an increased number of hikes. Earlham co-eds reported over two thousand miles hiked during the past two semesters.

Camp Club, organized one year ago, and now a part of Outing, has had an active spring. Miss Barbara Joy, of the Joy Camps, Wisconsin, spent a week on campus giving intensive training in camp craft. An hour and a half of lecture each day and at least three hours of practical work combined with meals cooked out, collateral reading, and a satisfactory written report entitled members to a Camp Craft certificate of value in obtaining councillor positions in summer camps. As a project for the week the Bowl at the west end of Comstock field was cleared of underbrush, dead trees, and accumulated trash. A fireplace is now a permanent fixture and a stairway fashioned from the steep bank winds down from the Pines.

The Bowl can now easily accommodate four or more camp supper groups. This vigorous week with individual training for more than forty girls and a permanent campus improvement has placed Outing Club on the W. A. A. map.

CAMPUS LIFE

"Prof. Ed."

TO PROF. EDWIN P. TRUEBLOOD, for half a century a loyal supporter of and active worker in Earlham College, we have dedicated this book. It is most fitting that we thus pay tribute to a man who has served so long and faithfully, and who has so endeared himself to the scores of students and faculty members with whom he has come in touch.

It is to "Prof. Ed" that Earlham owes the beginnings of her athletics and the organization of her speech department. More than that, Earlham owes him a debt for countless ways in which he has aided and supported her, and for the subtle and sweet influence he has had over the lives of her sons and daughters.

Edwin P. Trueblood entered Earlham the second semester in 1880, and attended school here until 1883, when he took a year's teaching position in Washington County Academy at Blue River, Indiana. He completed his work here in 1885, taking a B.S. degree.

From 1885 to 1886 he taught in the Raysville, Indiana, public schools. In 1886, Mr. Trueblood, who had become interested in public speech during his study at Earlham through Ionian membership, studied in the speech department at Ann Arbor, Michigan, where his brother, Thomas C. Trueblood, was a professor of speech. There he was granted a B.L. degree.

From 1887 to 1888, he taught in Carthage, Indiana, and came in 1888 to take a position on the Earlham faculty, teaching elocution and oral expression. He was also governor, a sort of resident dean, over the men at that time, residing in the east end of Earlham Hall. After their wedding in 1889, Mr. and Mrs. Trueblood lived in Earlham Hall for four years.

During the long number of years Professor Trueblood has taught here he has been out of school for only three months of each of two winters, and for two short periods of illness, one of four weeks and one of two.

While in school, Professor Trueblood played a great deal of baseball and tennis. He was intensely interested in athletics, and during the summers of 1890-91 took training under Mr. Alonzo Stagg, in New York. Mr. Stagg is now coach at Chicago University.

Up until this time no football had been played at Earlham College. It was brought to the campus by M. Augustus Murray, a Haverford graduate who was teaching classical languages here. He was ably seconded by Professor Trueblood, and together they organized the first team and played in the initial game, one with Miami University. Since that time the professor of speech has also been chief enthusiast on the faculty for clean, healthful athletics.

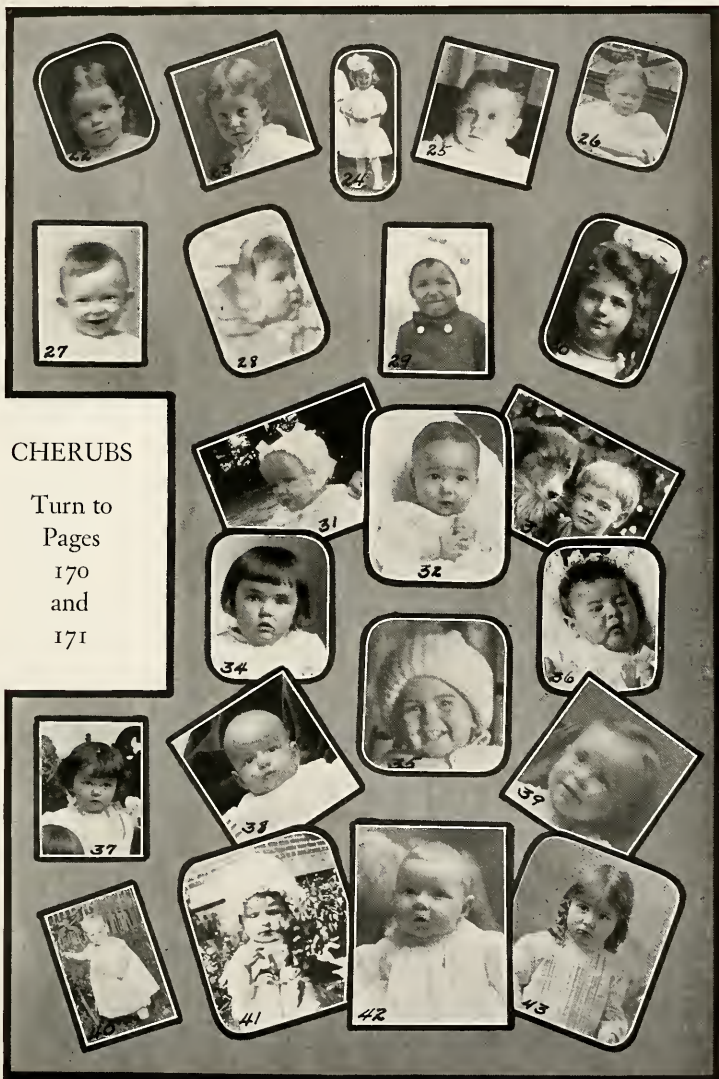

All Earlham debating is due to the love and labor of "Prof. Ed." When he entered the work, students were required to take descriptive, narrative, expository, and oration work in order. From these four courses the present department has been developed. From the Junior expository course the present Old Line Oratorical Contest arose. Our curriculum now includes a series of complementary courses, all the work of which was carried on by Professor Trueblood alone until the advent of Prof. Laurence B. Goodrich four years ago. He is now assisted by Prof. H. C. Morgan.

It would be difficult to estimate the debt we owe to Earlham's "grandest man." The class of 1931 welcomes this opportunity to do him homage with love and reverence, fifty years after his appearance on the campus of Earlham.

The Calendar

SEPTEMBER

September 11. Earlham Hall blinks, yawns, stretches in time to greet crowds of frosh. Bundy is also rudely awakened by whoops of incoming hoodlums. A scion of the Kennedy family appears to head those storming the citadel.

September 15. Supercilious upperclassmen arrive to look over the new recruits. Find themselves taken aback at the talent, beauty, and confidence of the youngsters.

September 19. Earlham Hall Council adopts new constitution; freshman girls bemoan enforced company when riding at night. Virginia Hess is heard to ask, "What is a chaperon, anyway?"

September 27. Earlham bluffs Bluffton out of exciting grid battle. Takes 14-0 game with neatness and dispatch.

September 29. Kitty Rhoads emerges from fog of homesickness. "Never mind. I still get that way," from Grace Hutchins, comfortingly.

September 30. Whole school lines up and looks pretty for the cameraman. Tommy Felix liked it so well he nearly got in on both ends. "To wear caps or not to wear caps" appears to be frosh question.

OCTOBER

October 3. Swimming, golf, boating, etc. Only the Juniors frolicking at Lake Wehi. Somebody mistakes Becky Smith for a golf stick.

October 4. SARGASSO throws shindig at the Leland. Even our defeat by Rose Poly didn't dampen our spirits. "Dampen" and "spirits" are ill chosen—it wasn't that kind of a party.

October 7. The Quaker Quill dedicates an issue to "Prof. Ed" Trueblood, celebrating his fiftieth year on campus. He retires into the shelter of his home, overcome by his sudden appearance in the limelight.

October 11. Homecoming! More alumni than we knew existed. Hollett outruns 'em all; DePauw game; Elmer Varnell is murdered before our very eyes in Cock Robin. Prof. Ed is still an object of admiration, commiseration, and congratulation.

October 17. Long faces appear among the freshmen as first reports are handed out. "It's going to be a long, hard winter," murmurs Johnny Barrett.

October 31. Ghosts, bandits, artists, country folk, gypsies, pirates, and foreigners mingle indiscriminately at masked skate. The "mingling" is especially noticeable when certain mishaps occur. A couple of Earlham pumpkins roll in for the evening.

NOVEMBER

November 6. The faculty don laces and silks and get chatty over the banquet board at the Leland. It is generally acceded that "Prof. M. O." looks like nobody's business in a tux.

November 10. Office announces it will accept candidates for degrees. First official move to shove out seniors.

November 14. Earlham auxiliary gives magnificent costume ball. Mid-semester bad news is out.

November 22. Seniors traipse over hills and dales chasing elusive clues. Final gathering at Camp Delight to compare alibis. All sorts of dignified games are indulged in: tiddledy winks, jackstraws, spoof, and the like.

November 26. Home for turkey and cranberry sauce!

DECEMBER

December 5. Budding actors present No 'Count Boy, The Flattering Word and The Underdog to intense satisfaction of everybody.

December 10. Wayne just can't decide what Frances would like for Christmas. Charles Peterson looks worried, too.

December 14. Gesangverein presents Krippenspiel—and if you can spell and pronounce both of those you win the frankfurters. Miss Bachmann covers herself with glory and remains angelic through it all.

December 16. Handel's Messiah is rendered beautifully by the choir and guest artists.

December 19. Snow, holly, carols, and all the rest that is connected with Christmas—and vacation!

JANUARY

January 14. Earlham stages stag stagger in gym. The men report a whoopin' good time.

January 17. Bundy suffers severe cleaning spell. Fair sex invited to see how the worse half lives.

January 26. Inquiry into knowledge begins again.

January 30. Semester over!

FEBRUARY

February 13. Earlham Hall returns the compliment and invites the men to see the latest in boudoir pillows, etc.

February 14. Hearts are trumps. W. A. A. country sweetheart dance, with men "on the outside looking in."

February 19. Women debaters begin illustrious career of victories by out-talking the team from Ball State Teachers' College. It surely is woman's forte—talking.

February 24. Hurst Shoemaker develops tendencies for chasing things,—you know, cats and dogs.

MARCH

March 6. Campus overrun with high school enthusiasts. Chance for college and high school studes to get together.

March 10. Quill announces Manning Smith will edit for coming year. Elmer Varnell and Stanley Hamilton vie for honors in Dover Road. Stanley was great, and we'll never forget those sneezes of Elmer's!

March 16. Lloyd performs with his usual brilliance and talent. Who is this guy Kreisler, anyway?

March 20. Spring vacation, and fourteen reports, term papers, etc., ad infinitum, to be done.

March 30. Vacation over and above mentioned papers still not done.

APRIL

April 1. Weatherman "fools" us and sends us mid-winter snow in the spring.

April 5. Easter. More E. C. students at church than any other time during the year. Dr. Woodman is seen to stagger and grow pale; strong men weep as youth file in.

April 10. Dramatic Arts class shows it has learned proficiency when it produces Minnick.

April 11. Tennis and track seasons open again.

April 15. Barney Overman, in the throes of practice teaching, begins to have that pedagogical look.

April 18. Aspiring English teachers bend perspiringly over comprehensive exam. Who did write, Intimations on Immortality?

April 24. Parents spend week-end with their pride and joys. It's nice to have Mother and Dad know just "how we do it."

MAY

May 1. Children of the Moon, starring Marjorie Hunt, so enters our spirits that we all feel a bit weird, a bit dazed, a bit crazy. Our Sarah Bernhardt proves herself an excellent dramatic actress.

May 8. Geneva Banquet. Always makes us want to go.

May 11. Peg Harold performs beautifully on the ivories. We stand in awe of such talent.

May 14. Institute of Polity begins. Men of overwhelming fame visit our campus. We are honored.

May 22. Spring banquet season is launched by Mask and Mantle.

May 23. Sophs and seniors follow suit while frosh and juniors frolic with abandon. No casualties reported.

May 29. Not to be outdone, Ionian banquets.

May 30. So does W. A. A.

JUNE

June 1. Beginning of the end.

June 6. Final exams are begun. Seniors and underclassmen struggle together. Ye Anglican ends banquet season with a flourish—no, we mean with a banquet.

June 13. Alumni Day. Senior play. Last appearance of class of '31 on the stage.

June 14. Baccalaureate. Brings a smile and a tear.

June 15. Not the end, but just the beginning,—a launching of ships. Bon voyage!

Appreciation

IT IS fitting that in the closing pages of this book we, the staff of the 1931 SARGASSO, pause to express our appreciation of those companies whose cooperation and interest have made the production of this volume possible.

TO OUR ADVERTISERS who have been kind enough to contribute financially to the success of this book by the purchase of advertising space.

TO THE E. W. BREDEMEIER COMPANY of Chicago for the designing and creating of the cover of the 1931 SARGASSO.

TO THE WHITE STUDIO of New York City for its able assistance in the photography of this book.

TO THE STAFFORD ENGRAVING COMPANY of Indianapolis for the quality of work which puts a stamp of quality on every page and for their willingness to go more than half way in making this book a finished product. Especially do we wish to express our appreciation of Mr. W. H. SHULTZ of the Stafford Engraving Company, who has been such a willing adviser in every circumstance, and who has always been at our service whenever we have needed him.

TO THE NICHOLSON PRINTING COMPANY of Richmond for the friendly advice to entirely inexperienced editorial hands, and for the splendid craftsmanship displayed in the printing and binding of this book.

CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC
THERE IS A
STARR PIANO
FOR YOUR NEED

It has been conceded without question that there are few requirements of a musical equipment which in severity of demand approaches that of school use. The instrument that withstands the rigors of educational usage must naturally become the standard by which others are judged.

That is the reason Earlham College is equipped with Starrs. We are proud to have Starr-Made Pianos here. We know these instruments will meet every demand made upon them. Today over a thousand schools, colleges, universities and other educational institutions are equipped with none but Starr-Made Pianos.

From the small school model only 3 feet, 8½ inches in height to the magnificent Concert Grand, Starr-Made Pianos represent a maximum of value.

"No I didn't. I gave it to the teacher."

"Did she eat it?"

"Guess so. She wasn't at school today."
